

Maintaining And Restoring Natural Shorelines

People have been enjoying and residing along our beautiful shores ever since the glaciers receded. In recent times, we have been losing our natural shorelines and the abundance, health, and prosperity they provide to wildlife and people. While it is relatively easy for property owners to protect natural shorelines, it is much harder to restore them once they are gone. These resources will help you get started in restoring your shore and improving the health of your lake.

Why are natural shorelines important?

How can I restore my shoreline?

External resources

Who do I contact about my project?